Pinto Gymkhana Horse of the Year

Hello,

First I would like to introduce myself, I'm Krissy Freitag and will be your new president for 2018! I have been showing horses in general for as long as I can remember, but have been lucky enough to be part of the pinto family for over 8 years. My family, (Aaron, Hannah, and Owen) and I make our home in New Carlisle, where we enjoy showing our Belgians and Pintos. BTW, I am excited that now my Belgians can be registered Pinto ☺!

I would also like to take a moment congratulate the new board and wish everyone the best of luck for this year! I am looking forward to working with everyone, and am excited about all the cool ideas we have for the future!! It also helps that as I have sat down to write this as I just got home from a great Pinto Convention in Oklahoma. As per the normal, the Indiana club was well represented on and off the stage!

I am more excited that spring is finally here (well who am I kidding, we are occasionally being visited by short bursts of winter, welcome to Indiana)! One of the best parts about spring is that show seasons is right around the corner. Take a second though and enjoy all these foals, sheading ponies, and start working towards your goals for 2018. If you have not all ready start making a list of where you want to go for the season and make sure you pencil in our Indiana Pinto Shows : May 19th & 20th, August 4th & 5th, and September 8th & 9th. Trust me when I say, it is one of the best groups around to show with!! Please make sure you take the time to stop by our booth at the Hoosier Horse Fair! We will have a great staff on hand that should be able to answer your questions or at least point you in the right direction!!

Happy foaling, shedding, and training season and see you at the shows!!

The Breed Pinto

The diversity of the Pinto breed can be seen in the number of recognized outcross breeds, which are separated into different types by their classifications. The Pinto is separated into five different classifications: stock, hunter, pleasure, saddle and utility. We also include ponies and minis. For more information on registering your Pinto, visit the Registration Page.

Size

The Pinto comes five different classifications - miniature, miniature B, pony and horse and utility horse.

A miniature Pinto is any equine measuring 34 inches or less and a miniature B Pinto is any equine measuring more than 34 inches to 38 inches. A Pinto pony is any equine measuring more than 38 inches to 56 inches. A Pinto horse® is an equine measuring more than 56 inches or 14 hands. A Pinto utility horse is an equine possessing Gypsy or Drum breeding, regardless of height.

Type

Horses and ponies and utility horses are classified by type. The four horse/pony types include stock, hunter, pleasure and saddle.

Stock - a western horse of predominantly Quarter Horse or Paint breeding and conformation

Hunter - an English horse generally including Thoroughbred and approved European Warmblood breeding and conformation

Pleasure - a horse usually of Arabian, Andalusian or Morgan breeding and conformation

Saddle - a gaited horse, possibly Saddlebred, Hackney or Tennessee Walker breeding and conformation

The two Utility types include Gypsy and Drum.

Gypsy - a horse of predominantly Gypsy Cob or Vanner breeding. Conformation displays a heavy build and short to moderate frame.

Drum - a horse of Gypsy crossbreeding with other draft type breeds or full blood draft type breeds. Conformation displays a larger, taller frame.

Color

A Pinto horse® must have four square inches of cumulative white in the qualifying zone and underlying pink skin. The requirement is modified with the size of the equine requiring only three square inches for ponies and two square inches for miniatures. Any Pinto that is registered with an approved outcross breed and has documented color on the outcross papers is eligible for registration.

The equines that do not meet the color requirement, but have at least two or more Pinto characteristics (blue eyes; leg white above the knee or hock; white or multi-colored hooves; collective white in the eligible zones, but not enough to qualify for color; pink skin), or are registered in an approved outcross registry, are eligible for our Solid Registry.

Pattern

The two color patterns are the Tobiano and the Overo.

The Tobiano coat appears to be white with large flowing spots of color, often overlapping. Spots of color typically originate from the head, chest, flank and buttock, often including the tail.

The Overo coat appears to be a colored horse with white markings. Spots of white appear to be jagged and usually originate on the animal's side or belly spreading toward the neck, tail, legs and back. White almost never crosses the back.

What's the Difference between Paint?

A frequently asked question about the Pinto is "what's the difference between an American Paint horse and a Pinto horse?" American Paint horses are limited to registered bloodlines of Paint, American Quarter Horse and Thoroughbred horses, whereas the Pinto can be from an array of bloodlines including the Arabian, American Saddlebred, American Miniature Horse, Tennessee Walking Horse and American Shetland Pony to name a few. The PtHA® does not accept Appaloosa or Mule breeding and/or characteristics except for non-characteristic Appaloosas.

10 Signs Your Horse Needs a Dental Exam

By Caroline Niederman, VMD

Equine injuries such as wounds or soft tissue swellings are typically easy to recognize. Problems that aren't visible to the eye, however, can go unnoticed. Take dental issues, for example. These often go undetected because the cheek teeth can't be readily seen and are dangerous to examine without proper equipment.

There are some subtle clinical signs, however, that can alert the owner about a dental or mouth problem, so it's important he or she be on the lookout for those and schedule routine dental exams. A full examination requires sedating the horse, keeping his mouth open with a speculum and using a strong light source and a dental mirror to visualize all of the cheek teeth. It also involves manually checking for loose teeth or other issues.

Some conditions are unique to either the growing or geriatric horse, while others can occur at any age. The following are the most commonly seen signs of dental problems and their possible causes.

Dropping feed

Sharp enamel points from normal chewing wear can cause a normally fastidious horse to change how he eats, resulting in dropped feed. Other causes might include loose or fractured teeth, periodontal disease, malocclusions, foreign bodies, and masses in the mouth. Many horses normally drop feed if they look around while eating or if they are fast eaters.

Suddenly not eating either hay or grain

In horses younger than 5, pain before, during, or after losing a baby tooth can make chewing unpleasant and difficult. In horses older than 20, loose teeth can make chewing difficult.

Dropping clumps of hay (quidding)

This can be secondary to pain from sharp enamel points in any age horse, for example, or in older horses it can be a result of a decreased chewing surface area.

Eating with the head tilted to one side

Mouth pain, such as from sharp enamel points on one side of the mouth might cause the horse to try to adjust his eating pattern by turning or tilting his head.

Salivating more than normal

The horse's body might increase saliva production in an attempt to lubricate something sharp or possibly make it easier to chew and swallow his feed, again in response to pain.

Losing weight

This can potentially occur at any age due to a dental or mouth problem. The most common clinical cases of weight loss involve aged horses that are unable to eat long-stemmed hay because of diminished grinding capacity.

Fussy with the bridle; resistant on one side more than another

Pain within the mouth can cause the horse to react negatively when asked to work.

Soft or hard asymmetric swellings

Young horses can develop normal symmetric bony swellings, called eruption cysts, in response to the eruption (emergence) of the cheek teeth. If the swellings are asymmetric or the horse reacts with pain on palpation, then consider them abnormal.

One-sided nasal discharge with an odor

Up to four of the six upper cheek teeth communicate with (are connected to) the sinuses within the horse's head. Abscessation of any of these teeth can lead to a secondary sinus infection. Discharge from the infected sinus will drain out the nostril. It is usually yellow and has an odor you might be able to smell as soon as you walk into the barn or stall.

Mouth odor

Mouth odor comes from food packed between the cheek teeth or fractured tooth fragments.

A horse owner can detect these signs easily by routinely checking his or her horse's head for any abnormalities and watching the animal eat. Regular dental examinations performed by a veterinarian will also alert the owner of any problems to be watching for.
